in our piano room.

The food got worse over the years, but soon, I didn't even care what we were having. At times, it seemed like my mother would cook just to cook; I would eat just to eat; and we would be there, just to be there.

The grocery became my own Hall of Fame in a way. In every aisle, every rack, I would see my past in small boxes, cans, and bottles. Noodles reminded me of my father's and
